Interview with Eve

Lilith got fed up with Adam's bossiness and left him. And then he got me and you know the rest...Adam never had much luck with women. 🦜 Don't get me started on those fig leaves...guess who got stuck with the laundry from Day One? 🦜 While Adam snored, the snake and I stayed up to schmooze. And believe me, he knew all the dirt in the Garden. 🦜 That apple? Adam never let me live it down. No matter what went wrong, he was like, "If you hadn't eaten that apple blah blah blah..."

🦜 Let me set the record straight... Adam and I have the same number of ribs.

🦜 All I can say about Cain is that one day I was in Paradise and the next I was raising a rotten apple. 🦜 Am I bitter? How would you like to go down in history as "the devil's gateway"? 🦜 Google "Adam and Eve" and a sex toy business comes up first. We just can't catch a break in the media. 🦜 Do I regret the apple? No, but your first one is always the most

HE'S SO ORIGINAL

Bob Fleming gets down to the studs.

He was the kid who liked jigsaw puzzles—insisting on doing four or five at a time. He was the high school shop nerd, and the college student with the incredible tan from working construction all summer. “I love the puzzle of how to take a building apart, then transform it into what the client has in mind,” says Bob, owner of Classic Remodeling, a design/build firm specializing in renovation. A consummate learner, he’s a longtime supporter of the American College of Building Arts and a member of an international roundtable to keep current with industry trends, especially those related to sustainable building. When not overhauling Charleston homes, Bob’s a “triple threat—Bob the Builder, Bob the Boater, Bob the Bartender” and he loves traveling, especially to Europe, where he marvels at structures that have survived hundreds and even thousands of years.

Bob’s favorite thing about wearing a skirt? “I can really appreciate the coolness and comfort.”

His favorite thing about reading skirt!? “It helps me understand women, and I can share it with my wife.”
